

Johnny Vukson is a Toronto-based real estate professional and the founder of JVP Build & Design, a 100% indigenous owned project management and renovation company specializing in residential and commercial construction and renovations across the Greater Toronto Area. With experience spanning both real estate and construction, Johnny brings a practical, solutions-driven approach to every project, guiding clients from early planning and design coordination through construction management and final delivery.

Through his work, Johnny collaborates closely with homeowners, investors, architects, city officials, and skilled trades to deliver thoughtful, value-driven projects that prioritize quality craftsmanship, transparency, and strong working relationships.

Johnny is proud to engage with CCIB and supports initiatives that foster meaningful partnerships between Indigenous and non-Indigenous businesses. He believes in building relationships that create economic opportunity, support Indigenous entrepreneurship, and contribute to sustainable and collaborative growth across Canada's business community.